

Deposit Methods at UF Video Transcript

- 00:00 6 ways to deposit funds. UF Banking and Merchant Services.
- 00:05 There are six ways to deposit checks cash and coin: Drop box, Mobile, ATM, Desktop Check Scanner, Wells Fargo Branch and Armored Courier. Let's review each method.
- 00:10 For the drop box option, a department prepares the deposit using a deposit ticket and tamper resistant bag.
- 00:17 This straight forward process lets me drop off our deposit to Criser Hall or the Health Science Center for delivery to the bank.
- 00:25 I make deposits electronically using the mobile Wells Fargo CEO app on my smartphone or tablet.
- 00:32 Since my department receives checks infrequently, being able to make a deposit from anywhere saves me time.
- 00:39 Use a Wells Fargo deposit-only ATM card at any Wells Fargo ATM that accept deposits.
- 00:46 Going to the ATM near our office to deposit cash and checks is the quickest method for me.
- 00:53 Departments with high check volumes may prefer to use a desktop check scanner to make their deposits online.
- 01:00 This convenient option lets me deposit checks into the University bank account from the office.
- 01:05 Deposits can be brought directly to a Wells Fargo branch near you.
- 01:10 The Wells Fargo branch is down the street from our center. This is the easiest deposit method for my department.
- 01:17 Ideal for departments that frequently deposit cash, the armored courier option is a secure and approved pick-up service.
- 01:25 Using an armored courier is great because I can expect the truck on a regular basis.
- 01:32 Having six options available, means you can mix and match deposit methods to meet your business needs.
- 01:37 For example, you can use the mobile deposit option when you have a few checks but can deliver a deposit to the Wells Fargo branch if you have cash and coin.
- 01:45 We have three goals. Create an efficient and accurate deposit process, reduce the time associated with each transaction, and enhance the overall customer experience.
- 01:57 Remember, we are here to assist you. Visit our web page <https://www.fa.ufl.edu/deposit-options> for additional details.
